

The Daily Courant.

Tuesday, April 13. 1708.

From the Brussels Gazette, dated April 17.

Vienna, March 31.

ON Wednesday the Baggage of the Princess of Wolfenbuttel, the King of Spain's bride, set out from hence for Italy consisting of a great Number of loaded Waggon drawn by Six Horses each, and many Domesticks on Horseback; but the Day for the Departure of that Princess is not yet fix'd. The Baggage of Count Traun, Marshal of the States of the Lower Austria, went from hence Yesterday for Presbourg, and he himself is to follow it to Day, together with Prince Adam of Lichtenstein, the Emperour having appointed them to be his Plenipotentiaries at the Diet of Hungary, which, in all appearance nevertheless, will not produce the Effects we hop'd for from it in order to the Pacification of the Troubles of that Kingdom: For we have certain Advice that Prince Ragotski has publish'd an Edict on this side and beyond the Danube, forbidding the Hungarians upon pain of Death and Confiscation of their Estates to repair to that Diet or assist at it; and that the Enemy are making great Preparations to continue the War. Upon which this Court has taken the Resolution to reinforce the Army in Hungary to 30000 Men, that General Heister may be in a Condition to act with Vigour against the Malecontents. Since that General has been at Presbourg, he has caus'd all the Places in the Avenues, where Troops are post'd to be reinforced with an Hundred Horse, so that upon the first Signal given by Way of Alarm, 1000 Horse and Dragoons may be drawn together in few Hours, to oppose the Enemy's Incurtions. They write from Trenchin that 13000 Malecontents are got together in a Body on the River Waag, which they threaten to pass. They are likewise making great preparations at Agria and at Hatwan in order to attack Pest, on advice whereof the Governour of Buda has sent thither by Water a Reinforcement of 500 Men.

From the Antwerp Courant, dated April 17.

Vienna, March 31. Two Days ago the Cardinal of Saxe Zeytz return'd hither again from Presbourg, and reports that all Hopes are vanish'd of an Accommodation with the Malecontents, so that now we think of nothing but how to reduce them by force of Arms. According to our Advices from Hungary, Count Berezeni, with 14 or 15000 Men, is at Schelitz on the River Waag, and intends to make an Incurtion into Moravia. The Governour of Buda has reinforced the Garrison of Pest with Troops and Provisions, Prince Ragotski threatening to besiege that Place. The Emperour has sent Orders to General Rabutin in Transilvania, seeing all the Fortresses of that Principality are in our Possession, to send as many Troops as possibly he can, to Hungary, to strengthen the Army under Count Heister, which will likewise be reinforced by the national Troops of Croatia, under General Palfi; and by a strong Body of Rascians. 'Tis confirm'd that General Esterhazy having demolish'd the Fortifications of Capolwar, is march'd with his Body of 8000 Men towards Scharwar; but our Generals having thrown into that Place a Reinforcement of Troops and Ammunition, 'tis believ'd the Malecontents will not dare to attack it. By Prince Ragotski's Orders Edicts have been again dispers'd on both sides of the Danube, forbidding all the Hungarians, of what Condition soever they be, to repair to Presbourg and assist at the Diet there, upon pain of being punish'd with Death, and the Confiscation of all their Estates.

From the Amsterdam Gazette, dated April 17.

Vienna, April 4. We have receiv'd Advice from Presbourg that General Heister has post'd a good Number of Cavalry all around in the Neighbourhood of that Place, to cover the Country from the Incurtions of the Malecontents. 'Tis confirm'd that the Malecontents are advanc'd in a great Body to the Frontiers of Moravia. 'Twas reported for certain, that they intended to demolish the Castle of Capolwar, which they lately took, but we are now assur'd that they have put a Garrison into that Place. 'Tis said that his Imperial Majesty's Plenipotentiaries have Orders to propose to the Diet at Presbourg, to take the following Resolutions before they break up: To declare null and abolish'd whatever Resolutions were taken by the Malecontents in the Diet they held at Onod: To declare the said Malecontents unworthy of his Imperial Majesty's Mercy; To endeavour to unite yet more strictly his Loyal Subjects, and to take effectual Measures for their Security. There are some who yet flatter themselves that the Malecontents might be prevail'd with to enter upon a Treaty of Accommodation, but there is little probability of it. The Jesuits, who have great Revenues in Hungary, employ all their Interest that General Heister may have a strong Army in that Kingdom; and 'tis said that they advance considerable Sums of Money, hoping to be largely reimburs'd by the Confiscation of the Malecontent's Estates, if we happen to get the better of them. Some Deputies from Naples are arriv'd here, to solicit this Court that G. I. may be continu'd in that Kingdom, where his Presence, say they, is necessary to preserve the publick Tranquility, as well as for the Reduction of Sicily: But King Charles III. having Nam'd Cardinal Grimani to be Viceroy of Naples, and this Court having given their Consent to it, we know not yet what Resolution the Emperour will take in this Matter: 'Tis said however that some Means will be found out to leave that General the Direction of the Military Affairs. The Duke of Mantua uses his Endeavours to come to an Accommodation with the Emperour, by the Intervention of the Republick of Venice. Mean while the Count of Castellbarco has taken possession of the Duchy of Mantua, and receiv'd the Oaths of Fidelity from the Inhabitants in the Name of his Imperial Majesty.

Amsterdam, April 17. They write from Vienna that the Hungarian Malecontents having rejected the Emperour's Proposals, he has resolv'd to augment his Army in Hungary to 30000 Men, and to agree with King Augustus for some more Saxon Troops to be employ'd against them. The 4000 Danes that are Quarter'd in Bavaria, and in the Upper Austria expect their last Orders to begin their March towards Hungary. The Imperial Court is much dissatisfied at the Pope's having declar'd, that he was very willing that the future Bride of the King of Portugal should be receiv'd and treated as Queen in the Ecclesiastical State; but that he could not allow the same Honours to be done to the Bride of King Charles III: And 'tis thought the Emperour will oblige the Pope to change his Mind by sending some Troops into the Territories of the Church.
